

An introduction to Educational Psychotherapy

Time: 6:30pm-8pm

Date: Weekly from 19/09/2018 – 17/10/2018

Location: Caspari Foundation, 225-229 Seven Sisters Road, London. N4 2DA. Two minutes' walk from Finsbury Park tube and mainline station.

Cost: £250 (£225 to members of the Caspari Foundation)

What is Educational Psychotherapy? Where did it come from? How can it be used to work with children and young people in school? This new Caspari course answers these questions and more, giving attendees an introduction to the theoretical concepts underpinning this specialist therapy as well as practical tips they can take back to the classroom.

Aims of the training:

- To equip you with basic knowledge and understanding of key psychoanalytical theory
- To support you in thinking about pupils who don't respond to traditional behaviour management strategies
- To develop awareness of unconscious processes and how they affect relationships and learning
- To make links with developments in neuroscience and emotional self-regulation
- To provide practical strategies to support pupils in school

Suitability

This training is suitable for anyone working with children and young people, or with an interest in this field.

The Trainer

Sophie Jubb is a highly experienced teacher with a passion for improving the educational outcomes of children with complex emotional and behavioural difficulties, as well as offering support to their families. An accredited Educational Psychotherapist, she has extensive experience of delivering training to school staff.
