

From reaction to reflection:

Managing challenging behaviour and group dynamics

Time: 9am for a 9:15am start until 3:30pm

Date: TBC

Location: The Laycock Centre, Laycock Street, London N1 1TH

Cost: £175 (£160 for Caspari members)

Join the Caspari Foundation for this one day course to explore how to manage challenging behaviour and group dynamics in a therapeutic way. We are an education and mental health charity which aims to raise awareness of the ways feelings can affect learning and so support the effectiveness of teaching and learning.

Aims of the training:

- Develop the process of consideration and sharpen perceptions, feelings and thoughts about young people whose behaviour is challenging
- Think about how the unconscious and the past can motivate behaviour
- Look in more detail at how and in what way young people form relationships with us and how that can inform us on how to help them
- Introduce the concept of Containment
- Learn to use therapeutic language to connect with young people
- Explore the use of metaphor and how story making can help young people become more reflective and confident

Suitability

This training is suitable for anyone working with children and young people.

The Trainer

The training will be delivered by Luke Palmer. An accredited Educational Psychotherapist with extensive experience of working with vulnerable children and young people in both mainstream and alternative provision settings, Luke has delivered training to a variety of professionals including trainee therapists and school staff. He specialises in story making in therapeutic environments.
